ICASA 2023 High Level Meeting.

Addressing Domestic Financing of the HIV Response to Reach the United Nations 2025 Goals and the African Union Agenda 2063 Aspirations

2nd December 2023, Elephant Hills Hotel, Victoria Falls, Zimbabwe

Introduction

Globally, governments have made giant strides to fight the Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV) and Acquired Immuno-deficiency Syndrome (AIDS). In the past 20 years, national governments, major disease funding donors, and civil society have made significant progress in supporting country programs to expand access to life-saving antiretroviral treatment and prevention options in the fight against HIV. There have been programs, coupled with increased awareness, prevention strategies, and advancements in treatments that are geared towards reducing new infections and improving the quality of lives and health of persons living with HIV and AIDS.

The year 2025 is a very important year for the global community and world-renowned health agencies (multilaterals and bilaterals) as it marks a milestone in the global HIV epidemic response. The Joint United Nations Program on HIV/AIDS (UNAIDS) has set ambitious targets known as the 2025 goals. One of the core objectives of this program is to lead and inspire the world to achieve its shared vision of zero new HIV infections, zero discrimination, and zero AIDS-related deaths by 2030.

On the other hand, the African Union has developed a long-term development framework called Agenda 2063: The Africa We Want which is a "blueprint and master plan for transforming Africa into the global powerhouse of the future". It is the continent's strategic framework that aims to deliver on its goal for inclusive and sustainable development and is a concrete manifestation of the pan-African drive for unity, self-determination, freedom, progress, and collective prosperity pursued under Pan-Africanism and African Renaissance. The agenda, among others, prioritizes the need to strengthen Africa's healthcare systems and sustain financing to address public health challenges such as HIV/AIDS.

While progress continues to be made, the fight against HIV/AIDS, one of the world's leading diseases, is not due to end yet, with the world now trying to address the disruptions in health services caused by the COVID-19 pandemic. Continued funding for the fight is more than paramount.

Several countries depend on external resources such as donor funding to sustain HIV-related programs. and this global support has played a key role in the HIV response program. However, they are subject to fund prioritizations by governments, or face backlash which in turn puts integral HIV programs and services at the risk of halting abruptly.

Several countries have made attempts to increase domestic funding for HIV/AIDS. Unfortunately, this is becoming more challenging. The complex financing landscape in Africa is especially critical, with slow growth, high inflation and challenging debt situations converging in some countries with a high HIV burden and debt distress. UNAIDS has reported for a third year in a row a 2% reduction in domestic financing for HIV. Indeed, the World Bank has forecasted a decline in health investments that would lead to two thirds of the countries in the African region investing the same or less in their health systems than they invested pre-COVID19 unless serious action is taken forward.

The above call for committed and sustained efforts to enhance domestic financial support for the fight against HIV/AIDS in line with the African Union's Agenda 2023 objectives. Concrete actions and recommendations are required to strengthen the sustainability and national ownership of the HIV/AIDS response, including mobilizing high level political commitment for the needed additional resources, and reducing donor dependency, while taking into consideration the slow growth, high debts and scarce revenues in countries.

This concept note aims to bring sustainable and domestic resource mobilization as a key component of discussions during ICASA 2023. It also hopes the HLM will outline strategies to enhance domestic financing of HIV programs in order to achieve the goals set for 2025 and align with the 2063 African Union (AU) Agenda.

Goal

The goal of the High-Level Meeting is to explore strategies for increasing domestic financing for HIV programs in Africa<sup>1</sup>.

Objectives

- Identify ways to expand domestic funding for HIV/AIDS programs.
- Conceptualize pathways to enhance domestic funding for HIV programs and services, in partnership with civil society organizations and the private sector.
